

Brian & Trisha have been doing mornings together since September 2019 and the fun continues! Their show is Monday – Saturday, 6am – 10am. They love being engaged with their listeners, the community and anything which they can be involved.

Our duo has also had the honor of working with U.S. Army Post Fort Knox, local municipalities, state government and some really great celebrities.

Brian & Trisha participate in a wide-array of local parades, charitable events and have each donated gallons of blood to the American Red Cross.

Their annual WQXE Turkey Drop drew 99 entries from listeners. Trisha then heaved a bucket of plastic turkeys from a helicopter onto a target below while the crowd watched.

Brian & Trisha also had an award winning entry in the Ugly Lamp Contest at their local fair. They won a whole $20. They had that much tied up in the creation of the lamp, so at least it was even money.

Our team maintain the longest running involvement with the Kentucky Derby Festival's AT&T Morning Line. Guests they interviewed included Governor Andy Beshear, Lieutenant Governor Jacqueline Coleman, Louisville Mayor Craig Greenberg, Kentucky Tourism Commissioner Mike Mangeot, AT&T President (Kentucky) Carlos Sanchez, among other leaders & dignitaries.

Brian & Trisha put a lot of effort into making their show fun, informative and entertaining. There are 6 newscasts each weekday. Other features of the show include local sports updates, weather and traffic updates.

Brian & Trisha w/Gary Sinise
@ Lt. Dan Band Concert in Fort Knox

Brian & Trisha w/Matthew & Gunner Nelson of the rock band, Nelson

Brian & Trisha on Fort Knox doing Confidence Course

Brian & Trisha w/award winning ugly lamp @ the county fair

Trisha dumping "turkeys" @ annual WQXE turkey drop

Brian & Trisha all dolled up for the Chamber of Commerce Christmas Luncheon and appearing as Jack & Sally from the Nightmare Before Christmas at the annual Elizabethtown City Holiday Parade